Hey Steve,

Let me know if you want me to add anything but see below for the update on Bishop Tube:

In the past few months, multiple inquiries were submitted to EPA regarding their involvement in the cleanup at the Bishop Tube site. The site is located in Frazer, Chester County, Pennsylvania and a prominent local developer plans to build new townhouses on this property, which has the community concerned regarding the contamination at the site. On April 12, 2017, a former employee at the Bishop Tube facility submitted a letter to EPA headquarters expressing his concerns regarding the cleanup at the Bishop Tube Site. The community has also reached out to the Delaware River Keeper for help, and she requested a meeting to discuss the community's concerns on the cleanup as well as EPA's involvement at the site. On May 18, 2017, EPA, Delaware River Network, PADEP, the former employee, and the Valley Forge Trout Unlimited had a conference call regarding the Bishop Tube Site.

In the meeting, EPA explained that the Bishop Tube Site met the criteria for placement on the NPL in 1996, but the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania did not support the listing at that time and EPA recognized PADEP as the lead regulatory agency for the site. EPA performs a monitoring role at the site by biannually coordinating with PADEP regarding the status of the cleanup work. PADEP mentioned that their website of the cleanup will be updated frequently for the community members. A letter response was also prepared to the former employee explaining EPA's involvement. Since the meeting, the Site Assessment Manager has received two phone calls from former employees requesting details on the site's cleanup.

Thanks,
